500,000 bales of cotton to Germany.

At the same time, the possibility of another international economic conference soon was denied by President Roosevelt, who at his press conference, said the administration has no present plans for suggesting or participating in such an undertaking.

Peek's statement was made in testimony before the senate agriculture committee. Chairman Smith, from the cotton-growing state of South Carolina, expressed immediate interest in his charges against the state department and indicated he would call Sectedary Hull and Assistant Secretary Francis B. Sayre.

Peek recommended that "the present 50 or more organizations in our governmental setup dealing with forgovernmental setup dearing with loc-eign trade activities should be tied together and should function under unified direction."

He added that economic affairs were entirely different from "diplomatic and political" questions and should be handled by "a permanent board of foreign trade composed of men experienced in the various fields of agriculture, industry, transportation, finance and government with powers adequate to deal comprehensively with our foreign commercial and financial transactions."

transactions."

Reiterating contentions he has voiced frequently in the past, Peek said the efforts to restore experts for American agricultural and industrial products should be carried on on a "Yankee trading" basis, dealing with each commodity and each country separately. Little can be gained, he said, by a horizontal reduction in tariffs.

Peek also charged that the department of agriculture was not making full use of the $100,000,000 provided full use of the $100,000.000 provided for in the agricultural adjustment at to stimulate foreign trade, one of the purposes stipulated in the allocation of funds. For 14 years under indictment for the murder in a garage of Deputy Sheriff Y. V. Yarbrough, A. M. Cochran was returned to Atlanta early Friday morning from New Madrid, Mo. Deputy Sheriff L. M. Hopgood.
Cochran, whose identity was discovered by the wife of a New Madrid deputy sheriff and former neighbor of Cochran's by a letter left by the man's easternged wife to be opened only in case her husband got in trouble, staged an unsuccessful extradition fight before the governor of Missouri.
Deputy Sheriff Yarbrough was shot when he conducted a liquor raid on a garage at Cain and Ivy streets in 1921. Cochran was charged with the shooting in an indictment which was drawn at that time. Cochran denied the charge upon his return to Atlanta.

Man To Be Questioned

Police Friday afternoon arrested a man who gave his name as W. C. Beddingfield. 21, of S11 St. Charles avenue, N. E., for questioning in connection with the daylight snatch theft Friday of two diamond rings valued at $1.750 from Speers Jewelry Store. 110 Whitehall street.

Beddingfield was taken into custody by detectives when he returned an automobile to a local car rental agency which had been identified as the one in which the snatch thief made his necescape after taking the rings.

Mrs. Max Loeb, an employe of the store, told police she was displaying the rings to a young man when her attention was distracted by the ringing of a telephone. She said she turned to answer the telephone and the man snatched the rings, one valued at $1.500 and one at $250, and ran through the door. He got into a waiting automobile, she said, and drove off.

Beddingfield told police that he had been deviced.

Beddingfield told police that he had Beddingfield told police that he had been driving a man around town and that the man had given him $5 and told him to return the automobile to the rental agency. He said he was acting as chauffeur for the man and did not know anything about the theft.

Fiddlin' John Carson was trying Fiddlin' John Carson was trying Friday night to remember those words of Jimmy Rogers' song that went someing like: "I'd rather drink dirty water and sleep in a hollow log than be in Atlanta, Ga., treated like a dog." But the harmony was missing.

Fiddlin' John and his son, C. C. Carson. were arrested and put in the city jail on a charge of "drunk and disorderly," following an altercation, according to police reports, with retired Patrolman B. O. Carroll, in front of 687 Fair street.

Another son, H. G. Carson, 33, who lives with his father and brother at 648 Fair street, later was arrested on similar charges when he went to the city jail to inquire about his father

The elder Carson, in addition to being a well-known radio entertainer and phonograph recorder, is now a doorkeeper in the house of representatives and frequently entertains the representatives during the recease with representatives during the recess with his fiddle music.

Mrs. Vanderbilt, Sister Enter Dress Business NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(A)—
The Sonia Gown Shop, successfully managed for 15 years by Sonia and Abraham Rosenberg, acquired two new partners today—the glamorous Morgan twins, Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt and Lady Thelma Furness.

Vanderbilt and Lady Thelma Furness.

By 3 o'clock, the two socially prominent sisters had finished luncheon at the Colony Club, and walked up the newly painted staircase to the display room, where they put in their first afternoon's work explaining why they had gone into the dress business.

"We've known Sonia for years, she's always dressed both of us," they said.

"We're going into this very seriously," said Gloria. "We will run a plain, ordinary dressmaking shop. We hope to have the prettiest dresses in New York and to make a great success of it. This isn't a society thing, it's purely business."

Many of the people of this state own small farms on which they have built private fish ponds. Sometimes these ponds are productive and some times they are not. There is a lot more to raising fish than—merely damming a stream and putting in some stock. There should be just as careful cultivation of an aquatic area as there has ever been of any acre of land.

There is the question of available food. What good does it do for the fish to spawn if there is no food for the fry? What is the benefit of having a big lake completely barren of fish foods? Then there is an angle that too many people forget and that is the chemical make-up of the dissolved matter in the water. There must be a certain amount of planting done. It must be carefully watched during the first few years. The pond, in short, has to mature. Then it is

take up to 5 times as much gasoline

Unless your gasoline starts instantly and warms up with a very minimum of "choking," you are wasting money!

your motor when you pull out the "choke" on your car?

A flood of raw gasoline pours into your cylinders, up to 5 times as much as required for normal running. That's why chilly morning starts are so very expensive. But you can avoid excessive choking with Super-Shell, the first truly balanced gasoline.

Super-Shell has such even volatility

Do you know what happens inside that it vaporizes and burns more completely at all engine temperatures. Starts instantly. Warms up in half the time of ordinary fuels . . . with less choking.

> Naturally this means a substantial saving of fuel for extra mileage . . . as much as a cupful of gasoline on every cold start!

Have your tank filled with Super-Shell tomorrow. It sells for the price of "regular" at all Shell Stations.

Gasoline on every cold start Think of it! Every time you start a cold motor you may actually save up to a cupful (8 oz.) of gasoline for extra mileage. When you realize that the average car starts 15 times a day-and many business cars up to 50 times a dayyou realize how this saving counts up in the long run.

Shell's Tremendous Investment in the South

THAT Shell is confident of the increasing business and industrial importance of Georgia and other Southern States is evidenced by the vast extent of Shell's growing investment in the South.

Shell's Southern interests, already totaling many millions of dollars, represent not only great oil fields-but refineries, pipe lines, bulk plants, terminals, marine depots and service stations.

Shell is proud to be an integral part of Southern progress and is doubly gratified at the increasing loyalty of Southern motorists toward Shell products.

TECH VS. GEORGIA.

Georgia and Georgia Tech's basketball teams meet tonight at the auditorium. And while neither of them is a championship team the game will be well worth the time and effort involved in getting to the scene.

The teams are about evenly matched with Georgia a slight favorite because of a victory in the first of the series of three games. The game will be a real contest and therefore much better than if the Celtics were involved or if, say, Kentucky's Wildcats were here.

Coaches Rex Enright, at Georgia, and Roy Mundorff at Georgia Tech, have done splendid jobs and, given good material, would be up there in the championship murder, as the late Bill McGeehan was wont to term it, has slipped one has but to peer at the reports from New York. Madison Square Garden, which built a great edifice and many millions out of the manly art, is about to give up the promotion of boxing bouts. This, too, at a time when boxing in New York seemed to be on the way back a bit. There were new champions and new contenders of promise.

But the Garden, by its policy, and the fighters because of their own greed and that of their managers, have helped kill off the goose which once laid the golden eggs for promoters, managers and fighters.

When Tex Rickard passed on he left them a great heritage but Tex had also left them the memory of the $2,000,000 gate and they never got over it. The day of that $1,000,000 gate passed on but the fighters kept demanding guarantees and the Garden kept them inactive.

It might be pointed out that wrestling keeps going along. The wrestlers are meeting the reduced gates by more work.

The boxers, by their greed, are out in the cold.

GAME OF SERIES Y.M.C.A.-V-8 Game Cancelled Because of Jacket-Bulldog Scrap. By Jimmy Jones.

About the only college game of the season that can be counted on to entice the basketball fans out of hibernation will be played at the Atlanta auditorium tonight, starting at Schools additorium tonight, starting at S o'clock.

And due to the Tech-Georgia scrap the Y. M. C. A.-Chattanooga Ford V-8 game scheduled for the "Y" court has been cancelled.

It will be the second game of the perennial series between Georgia Tech and the University of Georgia.

Regardless of where Roy Mundorff's Yellow Jackets and Rex Enright's Red and Black Bulldogs rest in the standings, a first-rate scrap is always promised when these two faithful foes get together on the boards.

BULLDOGS WIN.

The first skirmish of the three-ful foes get together on the boards.

BULLDOGS WIN.

The first skirmish of the threegame series was won by the Bulldogs in Athens three weeks ago. The Jackets took a 10-point licking on that night but since have shown noticeable improvement as observed in their close game with Vanderbilt, which Josh Cody's Commodores were able to salvage by one point after an overtime period, 33-32.

The next night, the Commodores disrupted Alabama's long winning streak in Tuscaloosa, thereby giving the lowly Jackets a little more luster.

Tech has improved, no doubting that. The reason is that four sophomores, Lawrence Hays, Burtz Boulware, Glen Hyder and Culver Kidd, have replaced a few veterans who weren't clicking and put considerable more punch and speed in Tech's attack. Mundorff has been drilling the four sophomores and the veteran Billy Glenn, perhaps the classiest guard in the Southeastern conference right now, in an effort to hit a winning combination.

GEORGIA STRONG. GEORGIA STRONG.
Georgia's team is far from being a slouch. Rex Enright also has summoned the zest of youth to his aid. He has Charley Harrold, a capable sophomore from Macou, at center, and Harry Harman, another sophomore, at one guard. These two young men are working with an experienced group of Frank Johnson, Mazo. Captain Anderson, Hal Gioson and Dan Bowden.

Bowden.

Tonight's game is certain to attract the largest basketball crowd of the season—excluding that which saw the Celtics play Tech—to the auditorium. The fans have not forgotten the thrilling affair of last season, which Georgia won, 37-33, when the stocky Johnson and Hal Gibson wheeled in a couple of rapid-fire baskets in the last two minutes of play.

Address Telling Screw Worm Menace Also Features Final Session.

The screw worm and the election of officers held the spotlight at the closing meeting of the Association of Southern Agricultural Workers Friday morning at the Henry Grady

Dr. F. C. Bishop, of the United States department of agriculture, addressing the general session, told delegates that there were 300 known cases in which the screw worm had attacked humans.
"Besides these 300 cases there are probably many more that are not on record," he said. "We have sent cir-culars to every doctor in the south in an attempt to ascertain the exact number of cases.

"With an almost increditably short life cycle of two weeks, with its ability to migrate considerable distance, and with its amazing increase in numbers the screw worm might easily become a pertilence reaching the epicome a pestilence reaching the epi-

FOLLIES GIRL

By MARGARET GORHAM NICHOLS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:
When Sherry Ross graduates from the Reedville, Va., high school there is no money so send her to college, so the tail, dark, graceful girl belps around the big house until the local bank falls and her father loses his job. She learns to make her own clothes and makes some summer dresses for a girl from New York, who teaches her to dance. She tells Sherry she has natural ability and says she should be able to get on the stage. Now that Sherry has to do something she becomes what she terms "paid acenery" in the Follies. The show is still in rehearsal and she is sharing a non-room apartment with another Follies girl, little blond, ambitious Janey Vines, whose parents had done a song and dance act for years and now have a chicken farm. Sherry has no men friends in New York and Janey cannot understand why she doesn't, because of her good looks and charming manners. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

she glanced at her face. "Sherry, don't be an idiot, my dear. Don't get too excited."

She got the gold sandals, and slipped the gold dress over her head. It fell in rippling folds at her feet, and there wasn't a wrinkle anywhere. Perfect.

Adjusting the mirror to see herself full-length, the effect was all that she could desire. She saw a rather tall girl with an exquisite body draped in gold lame. She fixed her hair, put on lipstick, put a little perfume on her hair, and picked up Janey's wrap from the chair.

Pulling on her white gloves, she paused a moment. Her warnings—what did they matter now? She was nervous and happy and Tony waited downstairs and Tony's orchids were on her coat. "Im*excited and a little proud. I can't help it."

There was no one in the lobby except Tony, and when she stepped off the elevator, he was beside her. "Sherry, you're lovely."

The orchids are beautiful."

In the car she asked, "Where are we going?"

"Where would you like to go?"

"Sergeant. Wouldn't it be awful if they'd called me 'Sergeant'."

The living room of his apartment was luxuriously and tastefully furnished in mahogany pieces. The chairs were deep and wide. A soft rug covered the polished floor. There was a divan at either end of the long, wide room, and two chairs by the fireplace. Gas logs were burning. Several modernistic lamps shed pale radiance upon and definitely masculine.

Tony took off her coat.

Sherry selected a chair near the fire and stretched out her hands to warm them. Then Tony came back with champagne in a bucket and two glasses.

The Associated Press average for 60 stocks receded .2 of a point at 38.6 cents. Turnover was restricted at 194,180 shares. Renewal of the automotic substantially its present form was au-nounced from Washington. This ac-nounced from Washington. Expected. tion had generally been expected.

Leading motor shares gave no evidence of attracting purchasers. General Motors at 30.7-8 and Chrysler at 37.1-8 each lost a little ground ing the session. A few leaders in the share market were able to gain fractions, including American Telephone at 105; Anaconda, at 1034; International Harvester, at 411-4, and Union Carbide, at 463-8.

at net declines of 4 to 5 points.

Disappointing Liverpool cables and the easier ruling of Bombay brought in some scattered selling which was fairly well taken by the trade at the start, but the liquidation continued and prices eased under the pressure with March selling off to 12.30, while July declined to 12.37 during the middle of the day.

Offerings were taken on scale-down buying by the trade, however, and the market held fairly steady in the late trading with orders pretty evenly late trading with orders pretty evenly at 12.39, with active months generated and showing rallies of a point or two the late that the late of the day and the market held fairly steady in the late of the day and the late of the day and

bond market was aided today by firmness in United States government obligations and other high-grade loans, and a fairly firm tone was maintained throughout the day.

ed throughout the day.

Volume continued around the low levels of previous sessions, transactions totaling $10,130,000 par value.

The firm tone in government loans was accomplished with only a small amount of dealings. Paramount-Famous and Paramount-Publix bonds which responded to the approval of the company's reorganization plans.

mous and Pafamount-Publix bonds which responded to the approval of the company's reorganization plans with gains of around a point each.

Fractionally higher prices were paid for Santa Fe 4s at 108, Baltimore & Ohio 4s at 101 7-8, Chile Copper 5s at 85-12, New York Edison 6s at 108 3-4, and Missouri Pacific 5s at 28 5-8. However, small losses were shown by Central Pacific 5s at 78, Burlington general 4s at 107 1-4, and Republic Iron & Steel 5s at 104 1-4. This uncertain trend resulted in the Associated Press averages for selected utilities, industrials and rails being about unchanged.

Gains of from 1-32d to 9-32ds of a point in United States government loans were the feature of the day's trading. Treasury 41-4s of 1947-52 were up 7-32ds at 114.28 and a similar advance was made in treasury 33-8s of 1940-43 at 105.22. Liberty 31-2s were up 5-32ds at 104.13, and Home Owners' loan 23-4s were up 9-32ds at 98.19.

Foreign bonds were highly irregular. Loans of the old Russian regime were weak on the curb exchange, Buenos Aires 61-2s sold off 37-8 to 561-8; Cuba 51-2s were up 11-2 at 79, while Chilean obligations averaged gains of from 1-8 to 1-2.

Market Outlook

Downturns of corn prices were in the face of the fact that the market had recently undergone a decline of about 10 cents a bushel. Oats followed corn action. Provisions were responsive to grain weakness, despite upturns of hog values.

Friendly Counsel By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submit-ted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution. "Is anybody really happy these days?" asks a correspondent, who evidently is not. Yes, there are plenty of happy people but there aren't any adults who are happy according to the children, the mother of nine living children, Mrs. Cox still lives in the family home at Ellijay, erected in 1884, where her entire family was reared. She is active in church and home affairs and personally supervises her farm and other business enterprises in Ellijay. But she finds time to make frequent visits to her sons and daughters. dently is not. Yes, there are plenty of happy people but there aren't any adults who are happy according to the childs horizons of happiness. When we are young we think happiness means flushed excitement, continuous gaiety, trips down romantic roads that have no turning. But grown-up happiness in being contented with what we have or can honestly get, in having work to do, somebody to love and love sits in being contented with what we have or can honestly get, in having work to do, somebody to love and love sits in being contented with what we have or can honestly get, in having work to do, somebody to love and love sits in the policeman that lets us in for most of the trouble me have. For he must be dealt with and on his own terms. Sometimes we foolishly imagine we can put him dently is not. Yes, there are plenty of we foolishly imagine we can put him to death and be rid of his threats. But he is as tenacious of life as the nine-lived cat. One may torture him and torture him yet even after he is thought to be dead he wiggles and squirms and menaces his would-be murderers. C. S. Mesh. 75 Ga. com. rate., 43.0625.00

Some of the happiest people in the world haven't any of the things that happiness apparently hinges on. Here is a woman of 50 who since she was a mere girl has been getting up in the morning at 7 o'clock. fixing breakfast for her widowed mother and herself, cleaning up her small cottage, going to work on the street car, working until 6 o'clock in the evening and then going home to cook dinner, to clean up after the evening meal, raed and go to bed. This routine is varied semi-occasionally by visits from friends or by some simple entertainment. Nobody has ever heard a peep out of her about hardships. Nobody has ever heard an excuse from her for her failure to do some friendly act to neighbor or acquaintance who had sickness or sorrow that required her attention. When the exigencies of her business' or domestic life keep her from going she sends a note. She has no money but what she earns by the sweat of her brow. She has no family but an old and partially invalided mother. She has practically no time for play and frolic. But she is happy and one can't be with her without sensing it.

There are plenty of happy people in the world but they didn't chass and catch their happiness, they didn't steal it, bargain for and buy it. They didn't look to anyone to furnish it free. They got it by private and honorable arrangements they made with their own souls.

Their murderous march was halted, however, when the door was suddenly thrown open and three great bulls stepped inside. "His Majesty the King!" cried one. Then the great bull that was Henry the Eighth rolled into the room. "Where is the fair hairless one?" he roared.

Then his eyes lighted upon Rhonda. "Come here?" he commanded. "The Maker has come for you, but he shall not have you. You belong to me!' He stepped forward, seized Rhonda and threw her lightly over one shoulder. Then he crossed to the door and hurried out.

Soon he turned into a small room. In a closet he opened a trapdoor and descended a pole that led downward into the gloom of a subterranean passage. The girl cried out, but she was answered only by a weird hollow echo. Thus began a journey of horror for Rhonda!

in the states he had settled down and led a steady enough life. Yet since his good job had given out he had been finding solace in O'Houlihan's new tavern. Tom was in his cups entirely too often, although how he got that way was more than Maggie could imagine. The good saints knew he didn't have the money. She decided some one must be settin' him up; bad cess to him, whoever he was. Now, all these thoughts burdened her.

"I'm going to break up one of these chairs," he told her, "and start a fire. Then you make me a nice hot cup of tea and I'll be off."
"Be off, will you? And where might you be going this time o' night?" Maggie asked as she filled the water kettle.

he water kettle.
"Im going over to O'Houlihan's and neet some of the boys," he answered with an assumed lightness. "Do you know what time it is?) Houlihan's closed."

"His back room isn't," Tom answerwith an assumed lightness.

"Do you know what time it is? O'Houlihan's closed."

"His back room isn't," Tom answered lightly.

Maggie murmured to herself. "The devil's abroad this night, sure. How am I going to keep that spalpeen from going out?"

As the water heated, various plans filled her mind. But nothing plausible seemed to present itself. She turned suddenly and saw Tom slipping something shiny and sinister-looking something shiny and sinister-looking to he principal questions of European policy."

Sored system of security pacts and Germany's return to the League of Nations no longer would have to take precedence over an agreement concerning armaments.

An official statement tomorrow is expected to reveal further important points on which the two countries will take a common stand.

A brief communique said today's meetings were for the general examination "of principal questions of European policy."

The Atlanta club is not interested in a hookup with a major club. Mann made this plain. The Crackers are meetings were for the general examination "of principal questions of European policy."

Private conversations will be held tomorrow morning, with the final for

It also became knewn yesterday that officials of the Atlanta club will make another effort to have the Southern league limitation on class men relaxed somewhat at the league meeting next Saturday, February 11, in New Orleans.

Earl Mann, vice president, will attend the meeting and push the fight to have the rosters extended to include 17 men instead of 16.

Bermuda Meet Is Last MINOR LEAGUES For 'Bitsy' This Winter TO PLEAD CASE

By Melvin Pazol.

Bryan (Bitsy) Grant, Atlanta's mighty atom of the tennis courts, will leave Atlanta February 21 to participate in the Bermuda invitation tennis tournament which begins on February 25. Bitsy received the bid to compete Friday and accepted promptly. He will sail from New York February 23.

Bitsy reported that he is in the best of shape, and hopes to return to Atlanta with another major title to his credit. He recently won the Miami Biltmore tourney, wherein he defeated Sidney Wood and Berkeley Bell, rated respectively seventh and second nationally, on successive playings days.

Grant has yet to hear any word from the U. S. L. T. A. regarding his prospects of representing America in the Wimbledon and French tournaments. But he is gunning for the chance, and the multitude of net stars invited to the Bermuda tournament will have to take the consequences. Bowling over the U. S. L. T. A.'s "favorite sons" is Bitsy's keenest delight just now.

That august body received a severe jolt when Grant won the Miami meet. Their old contention had been that Grant just couldn't put two good rounds of tennis together. He showed them then, and expects to repeat in Bermuda. Bryan revealed Friday that he will play in only two more tournaments besides the Bermuda event this spring. One of these will be the Atlanta invitation meet sponsored by the southern associa-tion here in April. He will pick the other from the stiffest national tourney competition offered, providing he can get away from his

Both the British and French chiefs agreed, it was state', that all measures for the appeasement of Europe should be executed within the framework of the League of Nations. The reported British view, as presented by MacDonald and Simon, is that concessions on both sides—France and Germany and continental nations attached to them—should be made as nearly simultaneously as possible.

The French view, as presented by spokesmen for that delegation, is that if Germany and Poland continue to remain out of the Rome and Eastern Locarno accords, France will be forced to tighten alliances or pacts with such countries as Russia and Czechoslovakia.
